Benefits of BSA Membership

As a BSA member you can take advantage of a wide range of membership benefits. Our busy calendar of events, leading academic journals and specialist study groups are all tailored to meet the varying needs of our members, giving you the tools and confidence to pursue your career and achieve your goals.

1 Discounted Event Registration

BSA members can enjoy significantly reduced delegate fees on all BSA events, including the BSA Annual Conference. We also have reciprocal agreements with our national and international partner organisations, such as the British Society of Criminology and the Australian Sociological Association, giving our members the opportunity to attend further events at reduced rates.

2 Free BSA Journal Subscription

Our leading academic journals continue to be internationally recognised amongst the finest publications in the discipline. The BSA currently publishes two wholly-owned journals (Sociology and Work, employment & society) and members have the option to select one of these to receive FREE as part of their membership.

If you can't decide which one you want, there is also the option to receive the second journal at a one-off members-only price.

3 Discounts on Other Journals

As well as receiving free subscription to one of our flagship journals, BSA members can also subscribe to Cultural Sociology, which is published in partnership with our friends at SAGE Publications. Cultural Sociology is the first journal to be explicitly dedicated to the sociological comprehension of cultural matters and BSA members can subscribe at a significantly discounted rate by ordering through SAGE direct.

As a BSA member you are also entitled to receive up to 50% discount on other selected SAGE publications and a full list can be found at www.sagepub.co.uk/bsa

4 Eligibility for Prizes

The BSA recognises, encourages and promotes high standards in academic publishing and teaching through annual prizes. Each year we strive to highlight the very best that Sociology has to offer, with our members given exclusive opportunities to win substantial financial awards and gain widespread recognition within the discipline.

5 Access to Members' Area of BSA Website

When you become a member of the BSA you gain exclusive access to the Members' Area of the BSA website. Here you can access full-text electronic archives of our journals, Sociology and Work, employment & society, download the latest editions of Network Magazine, and view a comprehensive listing of Sociology funding and grant opportunities. Members can also find advice and guidance on popular topics such as how to get their work published and how to work with the media, as well as finding the latest Sociology jobs via our Jobs Noticeboard.

6 SAGE Sociology Full-Text Collection

Through our exclusive Members' Area, BSA members gain FREE online access to full, searchable texts of over 40 journals by SAGE and participating societies, encompassing well over 40,000 articles and almost 60 years of back files.

7 Network Magazine

All BSA members automatically receive three editions per year of our popular members' magazine, Network, keeping you abreast of all the latest news and research within the discipline. Members can also sign up for our monthly e-newsletter, delivering the latest BSA news, jobs and events in your area straight to your inbox.

8 The BSA Support Fund

BSA members on low incomes can apply for financial assistance of up to £250 towards research-related expenses and study group events through the BSA Support Fund. The fund is open to all UK Concessionary members and includes a number of free places to the BSA Annual Conference, which are allocated on a first-come, first-served basis.
