

Sociology in the Archives: Black and Asian activism by and for young people
One-day workshop on the 18th November 2019, 09:30 – 18:00
British Library Knowledge Centre, Eliot Room

Programme

09:30 – 10:00	Arrival and Tea and coffee
10:00 – 10:05	Welcome – Judith Mudd (British Sociological Association) and Dr Allan Sudlow (British Library)
10:05 – 10:30	Dr Emma Abotsi, British Sociological Association and The British Library Education and race in Black and Asian communities in Britain: An archival study
10:30 – 11:15	Keynote 1: Dr Anandi Ramamurthy, Sheffield Hallam University Narrating and Archiving South Asian histories of resistance (Chair: Dr Emma Abotsi)
11:15 – 11:30	Coffee break
11:30 – 12:30	Panel 1: Youth, activism and archives (Chair: Dr Emma Abotsi)
	Eshe Kiama Zuri, Jacob Oti-Akenteng and Lisa Robinson (Black Lives Matter Nottingham Activist Group/BLMUK in conversation with movement activists and allies). BLMUK in the Archive: Preserving the Living Legacies and Learning of Black Lives Matter UK
	Sue Lemos and Olivia Wyatt, (Young Historians Project) Young Historians Project
12:30 – 13:15	Lunch
13:15 – 14:00	Keynote 2: Dr John Narayan, King's College London When the Borderline meets the Colourline: British Black Power and the 1971 Immigration Act (Chair: Dr Elizabeth Cooper)
14:00 – 15:15	Panel 2: Race, class and gender: perspectives from young people's movements (Chair: Dr Aaron Winter)
	Dr Stephen Ashe, University of Manchester Rethinking race and class in Brexit Britain: Why the Indian Workers Association of Great Britain archival collection in Birmingham is so important!
	Daniel Frost, University of Reading 'We're going to do a Special Branch on the Special Branch': Black youth activism in 1980s Croydon
	Amelia Francis, University of Chichester "Committed. Black. Woman": A History of Britain's Black Women Radicals from 1965-1985
15:15 – 15:30	Coffee break
15:30 – 16:30	Roundtable discussion: Race, activism and archives (Chair: Dr Aaron Winter)
16:30 – 17:00	Closing remarks
17:00 – 18:00	Drinks